

Emerging generations will have at least

17 jobs

across 5 separate careers in their lifetime.

56%

of Australians think few people will have stable, long-term employment in the future.

Approx. 50% of all new roles created pre-pandemic were part-time.

Forecasts suggest part-time work will grow to 2030.

32%

of Australians think their job will be obsolete within five years.

21%

of 18-24 year olds work full time-equivalent hours in one or more casual jobs, without job security or other benefits.

74%

of Australians want to split their working week across home and the office. Only 10% of Australians want to go back to 5 days a week in the office.

46%

of Australians believe that traditional employment will decline with the rise of the gig economy.

